Wall to Wall Exhibitions

ART with a capital A will be on view March 26 when the Women's Committee of the Corcoran Gallery of Art stages its tour of four private collections and two artists' studios in the Cleveland Park and Georgetown areas.

Among the art treasures will be a Courbet seascape, which has never been exhibited. The seascape, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Harrison, was inherited from her great-grandmother, Mrs. Cyrus H. McCormick. In storage for many years, it was restored, and now hangs above the mantel in the living room of the Harrison home, 3556 Macomb st. nw.

Also on view when the Harrison home is open for this week's art tour will be Toulouse Lautrec drawings in the powder room; an unusual Takins nude in the bedroom, and an ever changing gallery for the children's nursery, plus paintings in every room of the house.

At Mr. and Mrs. Julian Eisenstein's home, tour takers will see paintings by Braque, Matisse, Picasso, Rouault, Renoir, Derain, Manet, Daumier, Marin, Caillebotte, Kuniyoshi, Park, Biss, and Carone.

On view at Mr. and Mrs. H. Gates Lloyd's home will be paintings by modern artists, including Klee, Mondrian, Graves, Miro, Kusama and Arp. Tea will be served there from 4 to 6 p.m. as well as at the Gilbert Harrison home at the same hours.

In the collection of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Kandler, are paintings by Bellows, Benson, Dufy, Laurencin, Sloan, Fischer, Davies, Kroll, Haslam, Cassatt, and Glackens. These will be on view on our day.

Artists at work will include Samuel Bookatz, who has received the William Paige Award of the Boston Museum of Fine Art, an honorable mention Prix de Rome, two International Hallmark Awards and several prizes from the Corcoran. Bookatz will be painting from a model during the hours of the tour.

HEINZ WARNEKE, who has won most of the major prizes in the United States for sculpture, will show his studio and house where the original models for the tympanum he executed for the National Cathedral, are on view along with wood carvings and other sculpture.

Tickets for the March 26 art tour may be obtained from Mrs. David B. Karrick. Marcella Comes Winslow is chairman of the tour, a project of the Women's Committee of the Corcoran Gallery of Art.
